INGS AT THE MAYOR'S OFFICE.

Mayor has before him a number of documents relating to the character of the emigrants on board the Genesee—the reports of the U. S. Revenue Agent of the Health Physician, of the Agent to the United Commissioners, and the original dispatch from the Sardinian Government to the Sardinian Minister in Washington. Besides this he has information in another way—letters from Genoa, written since the vessel sailed, and translations of all the papers in the Genesee papers on the subject. He will give his decision to-day. There is little doubt that they will be permitted to land.

young men from the West appeared before Judge Bell, of the Emigrant Department, yesterday, and complained of John Earlight, emigrant-ship-keeper, No. 4 Carlisle st., for an overcharge of $3 in their board bills. Earlight was sent to come, and wanted to hush up the affair, so to be taken before the Mayor, and meet the charges, and have it published to all the world. Mr. Earlight became, at last, very inelegant, and caused Sergeant Bell and the reporters in general particular terms. He was taken before the Mayor, and ordered him to refund immediately. He appealed to the Mayor for protection from the press, but the Mayor assured him that reporters were not subject to arrest. Thereupon the wrath of Mr. Earlight broke out to an uncontrollable degree, and he swore that he would take $50 from Martin Cregier, a passenger on it, if it being Bell's share of a fund made up by and other emigrant-runners and boarding-house-keepers, to be used as "stealing money," or as bribe for officers, and other parties having control of emigrant business. His affidavit was taken, and the names of Martin Cregier, William Wilford and Alexander Mason as witnesses. Sergeant commanded an immediate investigation. Witnesses were subpoenaed, and they all denied knowledge of any such fund being raised. Known witnesses swearing against him, the complaint was dismissed.

THE STUART AND THE PUGILISTS.

PROSECUTORS TO THE MURDER OF POOLE.

Judge Stuart was engaged yesterday in taking testimony to implicate some six or eight persons in the escape of Baker, the murderer of Poole. The parties accused are three or four policemen, for the arrest of these and the others have been discussed. It is a well-established fact that Baker has been enabled to effect his escape through the agency of his friends; and for this interference with the ends of justice, Judge Stuart is about to bring them to account. Ever since the occurrence of the brutal affray which cost Poole his life, the worthy Judge has been using strenuous efforts to discover the parties guilty of secreting the murderer, and has now reason to believe that he has done so on the right ones.
